About Human Rights Centre..................................17
1. Introduction

This report is a quarterly produced by Human Rights Centre. It covers incidents documented by HRC from 10\textsuperscript{th} December 2017. It is based on data gathered, verified and recorded by the Centre using our database. This period coincides with a change in leadership in Somaliland. President Muse Behi Abdi was inaugurated on 13\textsuperscript{th} December 2017 after he won the 13\textsuperscript{th} November presidential election contested by three presidential hopefuls, two of them from opposition parties.

2. The Presidents signed new Police Act

On 26\textsuperscript{th} December 2017, the President signed the Police Act into a law. The Act was approved by the House of Representatives on 3rd December 2017, overriding the veto of the President who returned the Bill to the House. On 3rd February 2014, the vice-president who was acting the president, returned the Bill to the House of Representatives.
The approval of the Act is a positive step forward. The Act creates an oversight body independent from the Police, and subjects the police to the jurisdiction of civilian courts. It expressly bans the Police from using live ammunition against unarmed civilians.

3. The House of Representatives approved a Rape Bill

The Rape and other Related Offences Bill was approved by the House of Representatives. The Bill is currently before the Upper House (Guurti). It will become a law when the Upper House approves and the President signs.

On 19th March 2018, the Upper House of Parliament debated the Bill. Many members criticized the Bill and stated it is contrary to the religion of Islam.¹ A committee assigned to review the Bill met the stakeholders including the civil society. Human Rights Centre is very concerned about the negative statements made by members of the Guurti.

The Bill criminalizes rape and other sexual offences. It also has procedural provisions related to the investigation and prosecution of rape and other sexual offences. If the Upper House approves in this current form and the President signs into law, it will help victims of sexual offences to get access to justice. Currently, the outdated Penal Code of 1963 is the law that is applicable on rape cases. It has few articles on sexual offences, lacks clarity and narrowly defines rape.

3.1 Rape cases

Victims of rape cases continue facing legal challenges in accessing to justice. In February, a judge at Hargeisa regional court informed the family of a six-year-old girl who is a victim of rape that he had assigned a traditional leader to reconcile over the case. The National Human Rights Commission and the Human Rights Centre who were observing the case referred the incident to the deputy attorney general who was in charge of the case. The chairman of the regional court removed the case from the judge after the prosecution and the family complained. The court found the accused guilty and has given him nine years of imprisonment.

In Burao, a nine-year-old girl died after she was raped in multiple times and beaten up by her step-father. The family lives in Galkayo of Puntland. The step-father and her mother took the girl to a private hospital in Burao to treat kidney illness. But the doctors discovered the rape and referred it to the authorities, who apprehended the suspect.

4. Ministry of Religious Affairs “Fatwa” on FGM

On 6\textsuperscript{th} February 2018, the Ministry of Religious Affairs issued a Fatwa (religious declaration) banning what it called “Pharaonic FGM” and legitimized so called “Sunna FGM.”\textsuperscript{4} The decision of the Ministry does not have legal consequences. However, it harms long time advocacy and awareness aimed at eradicating all forms of FGM. According to NAFIS Network, an umbrella organization that is dedicated to ending FGM, and Edna Adan Hospital, 98\% of girls in Somaliland undergo FGM.

Somaliland needs to adopt and implement zero tolerance policy towards FGM and to legislate a law prohibiting all forms of FGM.

5.5 Licensed lawyer Abdirisaq Ismail Hassan

Licensed lawyer Abdirisaq Ismail Hassan was arrested on 17th February 2018. He was brought before a military court at same day. The court remanded him into custody. The head of the Firefighters told the media that Abdirisaq works for them. He stated that the reason for his arrest relates to statements published on the online media which harms the reputation of the firefighters.
